THIRD TERM MOVEMEN

Believed to Have the Approval of the President.

THINKS HE CAN BE ELECTED

According to the White House Circle the Recent Democratic Defeat Was a Vindication of Cleveland and a Rebuke to His Enemies-Whitney Will Not Be a Candidate,

There is now an organized effort on foot by the Cleveland wing of the Democratic party to thrust a fourth nomination and a third term upon their idol. This effort is to be started and directed from the throne, and every Democratic office-holder will be expected to work for the desired end.

Since the recent election there has been a most decided change on the part of the Administration. Prior to the election the Cabinet officers, almost without exception, believed, and in some instances said, the President did not want a third term.

The day after the election the members of the official family began talking third term from their hearts. They believe, or profess to believe, that Cleveland is the only man who can lift the Democratic party out of the defeat it has sustained. This talk increased perceptibly after Friday's Cabinet meeting. At this meeting it is known that Cleveland and his official advisers spent nearly two hours discussing the political situation.

The Calonet officers believe that Mr. Cieveland is the only man who can be elected as the nominee of the Democratic party. He, according to them, is the only man whose personality is a platform in itself, and who is able to command a great vote from the independent and Repubn element, or at least the element ich votes the Democratic ticket when Cleveland is a candidate. CLEVELAND IS CONFIDENT.

Mr. Cleveland, it is claimed, believes be can be elected, and thinks that if he had been running last week the Democratic party would have carried the day-New York, New Jersey, Kentucky and Maryland. Mr. Cieveland is not certain that he would not have carried Ohio. The President is of the opinion that the people rebuked the Democratic party last week by such adverse majorities, not be-cause they were dissatisfied with the National Administration, not because of the Hawaiian question, or the attitude on the general foreign policy, not because of the stand the Administration took on the the stand the Administration took on the sliver and revenue questions, not because of the bond issue, but wholly and solely be-cause of popular disgust with Democratic bosses who have stood our against the President, and because of the perverse manner in which certain Democrats have insisted upon running after the "free sil-ver heres".

In other words, the White House circle believe that the people smote Democracy in order to vindicate Mr. Cleveland, and as a leason to those people who refused to acknowledge him as their leader.

These facts laid down, the expounders of the third-term idea proceed to declare that is obvious that Mr. Cleveland is the only it is obvious that Mr. Cleveland is the only man in the party who possesses the confi-dence of the people to a degree to insure his election. Therefore, there is nothing to do but nominate Mr. Cleveland. At this juncture comes the

At this juncture comes the information from the same source that Mr. Cleveland does not want a third term. He is tired of work and wants a rest. Then, too, Mrs. Cleveland is weary of public life and wishes to retire from the White House.

Coming down to a practical consideration of the question, they say that Mr. Cheveland can carry New York State, and that he is the only man who can do it. In their opinion, the elimination of Hill as the leader of the New York Democracy emphasizes the op-portunity which the party has to put Mr. Cleveland up again, and by so doing carry the State which is vital to Democratic suc-

Mr. Whitney, they claim, will refuse to be a candidate against Cleveland. New Jersey they say, will come back into the fold with Cieveland as a candidate, while with any other leadership it must be considered a doubtful State. Maryland, according to the White House circle, left the party be-cause it wanted to vindicate the President and administer a rebuke to the man who and administer a remark to the Presi-has been an avowed enemy of the Presi-

By the same logic Maryland will swing into line with Cleveland on the ticket. So will Kentucky. The Blue Grass State was lost to Democracy, they claim, because of the local leaders repudiating Mr. Cleve-land's financial doctrines, and with Cleve-land as a candidate will gladly give her electoral vote. In summing up, the argument is that Cleveland as a candidate will secure to Democ-racya "solid South," New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Indiana and the election. The organizers of the movement point with pride also to the fact that Cleveland carried Visconsin and Illinois and almost captured the State of Ohio.

The spokesmen of the effort entertain no doubt that the party will put Mr. Cleveland in nomination. They believe that the people will agree with them that Cleveland is the safety. is the only man who can save the party auother defeat, and that a mere prejudic night not to be allowed to stand in the way

In the opinion of the third term agitators Mr. Cleveland will play politics this winter. They throw out hints that the foreign policy of the administration will be a surprise to the country, and delight it, too. There is talk of a surprise in the Cuban question. There is also a belief that the President will come out of the Monroe doctrine muddle with Great Britain with a plume, which glad to wear. These gentiemen of the administration have abundant faith in the ability of Mr. Cleveland to promote the third-term candidacy in such a manner during the next six months as to secure success, both in the convention and at the polls. Not only the members of President Cleves.

Not only the members of President Cleve-land's official family are in favor of the third-term idea, but Vice President Steven-son, who has been traveling over the North-west for some little time, says that Mr. Cleveland can have a renomination if he
